

NATHALIE KARG

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Jennifer Guidi

October 18 - November 29, 2015

Opening Reception: Sunday, October 18, 6:00 - 8:00 PM

Nathalie Karg is pleased to present an exhibition of new paintings by Jennifer Guidi. This is the artist's second solo showing with the gallery. An opening reception will be held on Sunday, October 18 from 6:00pm until 8:00pm.

In her newest work, Guidi continues her in depth exploration of ritual and the passing of time, building layers of textural marks upon one another, to produce an optically animated whole. By varying her tools, and staggering the intensity of her marks, Guidi creates palimpsestic pieces that allude to the tapestry of time.

Each painting begins with a brushed on black background on top of which lilac paint is scraped, allowing remnants of both the black under painting and weave of the linen to show through. The deliberate and meandering red marks are applied as the final textural layer, completing the structural webs she creates. The disparate layers dissolve into each other and create vivid patterns on the canvas that dramatically change from various vantage points.

Jennifer Guidi lives and works in Los Angeles. Her work is in numerous private collections as well as the Hammer Museum, Los Angeles and will be included in the upcoming show NO MAN'S LAND at the Rubell Family Collection, Miami.
